Horrible It deserved 0 stars Sales person was useless Never contacted me back like he said. Went to check out vehicle after discussion with salesman online about the vehicle. Come to find out the car had a dead battery and they were not planning on replacing it! Needless to say we did not purchase Volkswagen of St Augustine definitely earned your business promt, friendly, and knowledgeable. Valuing your time as much as you do. Excellent buying experience! Purchased from out of state and every step was smooth and honest. Would definitely recommend and or buy from again. Dealer called me. They said the car had a repair that were going to be completed that day and then they would call me back. They never did call me back so I bought a car elsewhere. This dealer does not follow through on what they say they will. Ray at Ozarkpowersports is a really nice and friendly guy. He helped me out quite a bit. And even when I had an issue he was there and more than willing to help me in any way he could. I would recommend him and their establishment to any of my friends that were looking for a vehicle. Very helpful! Stayed after hours when I was running late. Would do business with them again! Went to look at car, it needed some minor interior repairs and cleaned. Interior was very dirty. Dealer said they would and send me pictures but never did. They then dropped the price and sold the vehicle to someone else. Saw an ad liked what I saw went in took a test drive with Charles he was nice and professional. I had a great experience and would have found my vehicle except that they don't do financing. Great experience here at Kelly Motors. They helped us go through the process quickly and were informative about it. Enjoying the car! Ford Explorer's upscale twin is sorely in need of a redesign; it can't compete with its midsize SUV competitors. The Explorer-based Mountaineer changes little for Marketed as an upscale SUV for women and families, the Mountaineer comes with either a 4. While horsepower ratings are similar the V6 makes ; the V8 produces , the V8 does produce more useable torque at the expense of greater fuel consumption. Transmission choices still include a five-speed automatic for the V6 and a four-speed automatic with the V8. Last year, the Mountaineer received new safety features in the form of optional side airbags and an optional reverse parking aid that warns of impending collision by signaling an audible beep. Braking was also improved in '99 with a larger brake booster and upgraded rear-brake calipers. For , the only major change is the addition of the Premier and Monterey packages. There's nothing really new included with the packages, but they do group a large selection of luxury features together. To differentiate Mountaineers with the Premier package, Mercury offers this vehicle only in a Spruce Green exterior color with Medium Prairie Tan interior. The grille, body-side moldings, liftgate molding and license plate shield, rear-quarter extension, running boards and front and rear bumpers are color-keyed to the Spruce Green exterior. Mountaineer Monterey, the other new version, has two-tone paint, chrome wheels and luxury interior touches. If one orders a new-for package, the interior already good in its own right changes with the addition of special floor mats, leather-trimmed power-adjustable sport bucket seats and a wood-grain instrument panel. Despite the luxury accoutrements, the Mountaineer retains a distinctly trucklike character, which could be a bonus or a demerit. It's tough and solid, though the steering is a little slow and ponderous and the body leans through tight corners. Braking is excellent and the suspension has a compliant attitude, but the truck can bounce around over rough pavement. For those living in cold-weather climates, or for those who actually intend to make use of the vehicle's off-road capabilities, there is a Control-Trac four-wheel drive option with the V6 or a full-time all-wheel-drive option. Like a lot of Mercury products and their Ford siblings, the Mountaineer's offerings aren't very different than the Explorer's. But that doesn't negate the fact that the Mountaineer is one of the best SUVs on the market. It has plenty of space for hauling people and gear through the suburban jungle. The Mercury's abundant standard features provide a great deal of comfort, and the strong engine choices are a bonus when passing at freeway speeds. If you like the Explorer but don't want to see your own vehicle every 10 minutes while driving, Mercury offers a unique alternative. Doing so could save you hundreds or thousands of dollars. Edmunds also provides consumer-driven dealership sales and service reviews to help you make informed decisions about what cars to buy and where to buy them. Simply research the type of used car you're interested in and then select a prew-owned vehicle from our massive database to find cheap used cars for sale near you. Once you have identified a used or CPO vehicle you're interested in, check the AutoCheck vehicle history reports, read dealer reviews, and find out what other owners paid for the Used Mercury Mountaineer SUV. Is it better to lease or buy a car? Ask most people and they'll probably tell you that car buying is the way to go. And from a financial perspective, it's true, provided you're willing to make higher monthly payments, pay off the loan in full and keep the car for a few years. Leasing, on the other hand, can be a less expensive option on a month-to-month basis. It's also good if you're someone who likes to drive a new car every three years or so. Fine a good one and keep it. Read less. Car has , miles and it drives like new. Quality steel - no rust yet. I purchased this SUV knowing I would be the 3rd owner. It had a history of 3 winters in Michigan and 10 years in VA. There was some rust in the undercarriage around the spare tire connections and minor paint bubbles inside the rear door frame. It had 73K miles on the 5. It now has K after 25 months and 2 winters of mid-Atlantic snow. It has never failed to start and goes thru any kind of weather. I recently had to replace the fuel pump also annoyingly located in the gas tank and that fixed the Check Engine light. This might sound like a lot to some folks but I love this vehicle. I have mostly rural driving MPG. I'm hoping to keep this vehicle for a long, long time. Write a review. Frontal Barrier Crash Rating. Dynamic Test Result No Tip. Risk Of Rollover Not Rated.
