I wasn't a drug addict before this crap, I wasn't doing cocaine, I wasn't getting wasted every night because I didn't want to be alone. I wasn't this dark person before the madness, I was a whole other dude. I don't even think I smoked weed as much 'cause we couldn't afford it You just have to make the choice and decide the person you wanna be and stick with it. You get to a certain age where the people around you are not gonna be on that rollercoaster all day long ready for you to go up, ready for you to go down, and stick with you through all the madness. Nobody loves me They all get a repugnant feeling around my presence. They rather see me fall and they will not bother laughing. Instead they lit their cigarettes and continue throwing their cares elsewhere. One look, and the exquisite food comes out. Nobody loves me They love to pleasure themselves using my body but only in the dark. I am a dark fantasy never to be brought to the light. I am a dirty yet pleasurable secret. A stress reliever. A bag of marijuana in a Catholic boarding school. Only to smoked late at night. Nobody loves me My presence in the blazing sun is a taboo to them. They are disgusted as they see me walk with pride and mind my business. They want to take out their knobkerries and beat me up till I bleed out. Only for them to come back when the moon comes out shyly and apologize. You should understand. You are my dirty little secret. I deserve to be thrown in a dark dungeon and have the keys thrown in the middle of the Indian Ocean. They will never be recovered. I am a abomination they rather not think about. I was born into this world to accept it. I cannot break parts of myself to fit your perfectly planned world. I love me. My friends love me. My family loves me. The flowers and the air love me. Animals and insects love me. The waves at the beach love me. Technology loves me. Music loves me. You made me laugh, smile like a sunflower. My world was complete with your presence. It was as though you were an answered prayer to a prayer I never made. Every second spent with you was music yo my ears. The sex was over the moon but you were evidence that there is more to love than sex. Your teases were enough for me to orgasm. The adventures we had, the fights and not forgetting the apologies. I will always love you. You felt like the one but mother nature proved she was that bitch. She made you a whole chapter in my book and not the ending chapter. She made you an introductory chapter. She whispered to me that there shall be many chapters till the book ends. I walked in the Kgalagadi desert and you were a mere mirage that appeared to be an oasis. I think. I honestly do not know. I have basically lost the idea or plot of this thing called love. It has become an alien feeling that refuses to land on my planet. It is not your fault. I also dont know now. Or maybe we met at a wrong time and mother nature has a plot twist for the later chapters. Maybe she will bring you back to my life and I will have you fully. Or maybe this is really goodbye. Talk about the demon that has taken over and encompassed the minds of over Billions of people. A terrible spirit that can be invoked by anything literally. I wrote a suicide not the other day. I got into a dark hole in my head. I questioned everything. I questioned my existence and my worth. I went to the mirror and I saw this hideous creature that walks with a fake smile everyday. The amount of strength and energy used to fake the smile is a lot. My sleep patterns were not affected. My eating was not hindered. Everything seems normal till the thought overwhelms the others and switches the light off leaving me in this abyss in my head. Its like the sunken place where you can scream but no one can help. With no hesitation i lie that i am but voice is shaky. I was at the point of watching a movie with a death scene and just burst out in tears that could fill up dams in sub Saharan Africa. I keep falling and I cant stop. I see every single person in my life and question their intentions. Slowly, Im sinking till I cant see the light. In that dark place, I feel every poke fro every one of the demons sent to make me suffer. I tasked to get my weapons and do as they please just so I can get 5 seconds of peace. I am forced to write the letter that could leave a few hundred individuals crying. I write y suicide note guided by the movies I have watched. I have the template inscribed in my hippocampus. Every time i switch off, my brain runs to that part and it does what it used to. It is a dark place with art pieces that could revolutionize contemporary art in Takashi Murakami would get orgasms by being here. The walls are painted navy black with no other color. Its a bistro of my insecurities. All of them on the menu waiting to be ordered by me and served by the waiter who looks like pit-bull and reeks the smell of cow stomachs and intestines being cooked with no onion. Every gray cloud has a silver lining. Or does it?? I hear my conscious being my advocate against my case with this darkness, I get bail at the cost of my tears. I leave. I go out and run to the light. I see the letter I have written. It appears I have been out for a good 1 hour. Today it was not a long one. I did not go on a hiatus. I look at the note. It turns out the angel of death forgot every detail that was going to eventually give him victory. So I laugh and tear the note as it not for public consumption. I wonder when it will end and when it ends, who will be the victor. A lot of people battle depression everyday and a lot give in and commit suicide due to it. Some have visible expressions that can result in instant help. Depression is triggered by so many things. A rejection from the school of your choice, unrequited love, or even financial burdens. All these and more can just result in a multiplier effect which, if left unchecked, could result in many folks wearing black as they cry. Be nice and spread love to others. Often, people are going through the most and when you come with your selfish self, you just involuntarily trigger someone to go into the dark hole. I had people wishing for my hugs coz they are warm and hence I give them freely. I have people who genuinely enjoy my presence and never fail to make me aware of it. I chose to focus on the good and be positive despite the constant negativity surrounding me. Long story short, I wrote a suicide note, read it then I tore it into unreadable pieces and put it in the trash can coz burning it would cause global warming. Stay safe and be kind to everyone no matter what. Flames of fury fueled by the idea that love can be played with like a toy bought from the flee market that you will soon toss away because it is plastered with fake minerals that cause massive skin reaction at contact. An ideology generated by the infatuation your mother had for your father. A foolish act she now regrets 40 years later but because of you she stayed strong hoping one day you would be the human she never was only for you to be worse than her foolish youth. And so now the foolish acts of our ancestors make us suffer today. We walk with blisters on our feet yet we had golden spoons we used to beat up the maid when she made the wrong cereal. Burn baby burn. Let the smoke of entitlement and tradition encompass every decision you make so that you can gallivant the streets of Freedom like you are a citizen of its land but yet you are simply a statistic that their xenophobia wishes to pounce on once a year just because it can. A mere number. Probably a 3. Nothing big or out of the ordinary. Just a number waiting to be multiplied because it undermines its value. Burn baby burn Let the ashes of your guilt run you over and make you realise that you were nothing but a fool who found pleasure in the suffering of the innocent. A fool who knew his day would come but for some reason, he never prepared. Burn baby burn Let your mark be seen. Leave that black charcoal on the once lavish building that now stands as pile of dirt. Showcase your whole existence which is unjustified. An imbalance to mother nature I cannot stress it enough Burn baby burn. She bottled her feelings over the years with the hope of a gigantic light at the end of the tunnel. You saw how vulnerable she was. So you made her beg you. Made her feel like she needs you. Like you are an essential element in her life. So you win. She jumps at your command. She makes you feel like a man. She gives you a sense of masculinity that your father failed to give you because he concluded you were a waste of his seed and his hard earned money. Now the negative energy flows from your manhood to her soul. Now she feels useless in your absence. Her friends have told her numerous times to let you go. You not worth even a dime of her but to her, they are making noise. Now she your ecstasy. Gives you that high when u need it but not your daily vitamins. And yet she thought she was your vitamin. Your source of joy. Because you have allowed her to play along the idea that she is. A wet paper towel after the bbq. In the hands of its user on the way to the trash can. With greasy stains and murky water residues. Like he rode Dracarys and acted like the made king and burned anyone not of his race. I am not a racist. I do not understand the whole art of having a pathetic fetish to hate someone because of something so insignificant like skin color. I do engage in any movements regarding race as I find them taunting to the spirit of unity. However, I observe all the injustice and I write my truth. Messed up if I can say. From colonization to wars to Global warming. Problems for the black person started when colonization came up. It may have been before but I will start here. Dig this, I own land and I hunt and gather to feed my kids then someone with a weapon superior to my assegai decided to take my land cause its arable and its warm. Fair enough I sign and you take my land. You make me work on my land to produce food for you. What have I done? But wait! In the north, my counterparts are separated from their villages with logs and chains on their bodies shipped across the waters to a foreign land to work on plantations for nothing. That is slavery OMW. So inferior that I can wake for free under the worst conditions just to create wealth for someone who wants to tarnish the rest of his race to the rest of the world. The worst part about this is I was probably sold into this by my own leader all for some spices and jewellery. Okay enough with the past. I was probably lying up there because I was not there and the documentation back then can be subjective. It is history after all. That the light skin sister is somewhat beautiful, pretty etc compared to our melanin filled sisters. The element of love has left our hearts. We have so much hate in us it is astonishing. I think I have blamed every one of our problems to race but I have noticed something quite scarier. Black on Black crime. And on this one, it is our black sisters who suffer. From unattainable appearance standards to rape, murder etc. I have not done much research on this but I have observed that when it comes to issues of rape and murder, our black sisters suffer the most. And for some reason, it is the black brothers committing these crimes. Do I honestly have to be a straight yes I said it coz gay people suffer , Christian, white man to be happy on this planet? Why is happiness predetermined by a system I cannot control? We are killed, tortured for being black. Our blackness has to be subtle. Wear your dashiki robe only on Africa day. If there is no non-black person then the quality of the service is somewhat questionable. It is like being a black person we are at the of the spectrum. The last at the food chain. What else can we do? We will be the kings and queens we have always been. We will not be suppressed. I hope we do it right next time. One picture and babe was in love. Zero logic because it was overtaken but feelings that had risen due to hormones doing what they do best. But who falls in love in thr club? Or rather, after meeting a stranger for the second time, then boom you in love. Sometimes wake up, smell the coffee. A very wise but perv being said wank before and see if feelings are still real. Only to find yourself in the same boat with 2 different humans but their minds work synonymous. You even do something stupid by going with your hoes to see X and X gives your hoes the time of day. They said humans are trash. I felt it. The hoeing, the heartbreaks and yes me saying no harshly to the ones who wanted me because they did not match my bill. Did I talk about the stigma? Shoes of a girl who has been hurt by the torture she has put herself through or in the name of love. All she ever wanted was to be in love. It got so bad, she somewhat has been giving in to every dick ass nigga that comes her way. She has slowly forgotten what love is. She feels inferior, ugly, disgusted by the wounds shr bore herself. It is buried deep in herself but she has succumbed to the ideology that it was never in her. She is sad. She is lonely. She has bowed to other gods forgetting the inner goddess in her. Now she hoes away her life drinking away the pain because she now thinks love exists when she is having sex. After that, she is now a regular. A hoe. She has friends. One day she will wake up and realise her worthâ€¦. That is her story. Her name is â€¦â€¦â€¦. I was just a piece of human flesh that can be used to please for but less than 30 minutes. I sat in that bed, naked and alone. Never have I felt so exposed. Like a lady of the night but in this case, no money. U know u are worth nothing when goodbye is merely goodbye. I think not. More like stupid. Because the little voice called conscience spoke. It screamed. It cried. It bled tears so red like the blood moon. But I ignored. Violent pleasure they call it. Minus the chains and whips. Fully sober. Inner voice was right. Always right. Humans hide behind love to enjoy these fleshly desires. Humans are beyond canal. They are deceiving. Like the serpent. But worse. Experience is the best teacher. But fooled twice?? Love, u just dum now. You have issues. Issues dragging u back to your oppressor. Get help. Its never late. Wash your body. Shed that tear. Make that prayer. U need it. Now know your worth. Add tax. Learn from your errors. Move on. Start over. Its okay. You can fall but u can get up again. You are loved. You are not a pleasure tool. Patience should be your virtue. Focus on other endeavours. Stay strong. Hope to see u on another level next time we meet. You parade my tears to the world like its a trophy. Hit that! Tap that! Go on. Move on to the next. Thank you, next like ariana sang. I give in easily. My heart so fragile to the point that it not only forgives, but its blinded by the lust that takes over. Lust takes over, its sickening. I throw my body to the wolves and expect teddy bear hugs. I forget that blood suckers see prey on me. My heart and my soul ignore the thoughts of being foodâ€¦. I throw Regina George vibes to innocent people. My shade is never subtle when its those who actually care. I have anger in mr building up all because I never get a crown I barely deserve. Oh I need helpâ€¦. Recycled body. Recycled heart. Reused by human beings for a mere 20 minutes of forgettable pleasure. Only to be ignored, blocked and ridiculed in public after the weekend is over. Pour me the gin. Let me drown my pain. Let my mind be at ease. Let my pocket feel the painâ€¦. Embrace my ugliness. Love my washed up body. Let the African sun burn my deep brown eyes. The streets have rendered me worthless. My mileage has reached a maxâ€¦. But its not cold. Its quite warm. Its colourful like a pride flag. My mind is in shambles. But my soul is at peace. Black Panther fam. Black Panther!!!! Yes my lover took me to Wakanda. The El Dorado. The land of Vibranium. Who knew blankets could be shields not of the cild but even bullets. Oh my lover was kind to me. He gave me multiple orgasms and multiple beatings. I swear it was a violent relationship. But somehow, I apologized. I was always wrong. My lover made me feel like a hoe. A slut. A bed hopper. I knew all the beds of harare. The silk sheets from China scented with cheap cologne of a drunk 30 something year old. You feel worthless and unwanted. You are a basic Bih. Damn babe! You said you was mineâ€¦. It was the pastor. He said you was mine. Standing next to a yellow bone thick lady abusing those Red bottoms. You would wish those black heels are better of on the lady of the night. At least she will tell you what your money can afford u. That pastor told me you were mineâ€¦., He declared blessings beyond measure. Bountiful season after the other. He swore an overflow of my cup. But he left the tanked reputation, the tears on my pillow case, the brownies and coffee and definitely the fire. But my love Oh babe. You brought flowers of friendship, chocolates of family and bottles of victory. Red victory. You took me on picnics at the lake. The lake of truth. You exposed the snakes in my life and you taught me how to charm them. So yes you were amazing my love. But as Nicki sang, its time to say goodbye goodbye-David Guetta , its that time babe. We have to go our separate ways and find new meaning to life. I hope u find what i could never give u as i find what u lacked. Thank you for everything. I wish u all the bestâ€¦â€¦. Take a look at the best of the best from Kid Cudi, one of modern hip-hop's most creative, iconic and influential artists. The impact of Kid Cudi should not be understated. Cudder has been in his feels for us all to hear for nearly a decade, providing comfort, assurance and relief for anyone going through tough times. Fans clamored for four years for a proper release, and producer Dot Da Genius finally appeased them in with the studio version. The game may not have been hopeless, but we needed this dose of elation over a moving piano loop nonetheless. Travis Scott has never shied away from stanning for Kid Cudi, and their natural partnership makes the admiration that much sweeter. His haunting production is just begging for his dark, wary elder to hop on. And kudos to Emile for taking a psychedelic sample and flipping it so heartbreakingly. Defiance can never have too many anthems. Or too many catch phrases, for that matter. This is where it all began. Rager is an alter ego just as necessary for Scott Mescudi as he is for us. Cudi himself has said the song was inspired by a more destructive mind state, but Mr. Sometimes you have to be a little disruptive to get where you need to be. In this interview with Trevor Ncube, Agriculture Tech entrepreneur and music producer, Kuda Musasiwa, talks about his experience growing up in Sydney, Australia and losing everything when he came back to Zimbabwe after being let down by a Zimbabwean company. And you know, the one story that I can tell which I think it encapsulates my life as a young kid who was born in Mbare is that, you know, my parents had got a scholarship for my dad to his doctorate in Australia. I was a baby. People use strong language there, and it was extremely, extremely racist at the time because they had no understanding. So a black child in Australia was an extremely difficult thing. I remember primary school. It crushed me. It crushed me to see teachers, allow that to happen the headmistress even allowed in. I was given five minutes was the other kids were changing to swim after every lesson is a hot country does that make you a racist so it made you tolerant. Look, it may be now, it may be a person who started to lead a band of misfits, you know, it made me now the person who hung out with the kid was a dwarf, the kid was you know with the red hair who everyone called a ginger and it made me somewhat of an outcast and hence I believe that sometimes my calling anti authority person personality sometimes comes from those fears where I am a nonconformist. Because I guess I was never accepted as as them in the 80s, it was really died I mean, the Prime Minister at the time Bob Hawke, they asked me my sister and my brother to act as Aborigines in the Bicentennial story in And at the end in the Sydney Opera House when we finished the Prime Minister walked up to his wife, and he looked at me my brother goes there is my little Golliwogs and he rubbed our hair. Yeah, as you mentioned the human. The human eyes, I think we made my love with agriculture I think came from there as well, you know, even though I was in Sydney. A lot of the times where the sheep farms and stuff. I just believe that people are most similar to us, sometimes with different skin color. Your dad is a man of faith, this, you will not explain that to me what what happened. You failed twice, I failed a lot of times but I think as far as losing everything twice to talk to me about losing everything twice. Look, the, you know, after 15 years of working in in the UK you know we we started to two great startups we had one called blockholders, w, and so Dodo UK and Messad one called a star tools. And, you know, I made, I made quite a bit of money, as a young man, sort of, in the UK at the end of my my stay there. And oh I came back, we shipped everything that we had in these 40 foot containers, including my beautiful Range Rover Freelander. And we use the Zimbabwean company. Black company. I came back and I had to start from scratch. The second time I lost everything. After building all this up, I went through a terrible divorce. Terrible divorce right. I married my child was flooded with datasets were She left three children. So, the second loss, I would say is losing your family losing your own losing everything around you that you will hold the value again things. And starting again, you know, and what is that done to CUDA it liberated me because a person with absolutely nothing to lose any more has nothing to lose. The barrier to being to taking a risk when you have nothing to lose is much easier. My family. So, essentially from the lessons we can be detached to things. In that, and I think things for me. And this is why I probably drive my my old Honda Fit is bashed up as it is, as proved to me that you know the days of my judgment except for a long run right through it. Those things that used to give me value as a person can can disappear. But then as a person, you still have to remain, you still a dad you still a son you still a brother. I, in fact, if I think about I spent 15 years in the UK acquiring things which you lost, which I lost. With nothing and try to get you know and beanie and spend that time with, but they say life begins at 40 coulda, you just started. Unknown They mean everything you know and I think everything I do is for them, you know i i take big lessons from my dad and my mom. When Twitter opened in I typed in, to God. Sign in.
